

Henriettenplatz, Berlin

The new gateway to Kurfürstendamm

Henriettenplatz, Berlin

Facts and Figures

Two office towers now characterise the new Henriettenplatz and reunite the previously divided areas

Next to the office buildings there is an area for retail. The offices represent the old Berlin character between living and working and the green spaces round off the overall picture. Through years of experience and expertise, SOMMER was awarded the contract for the production and installation of the window and facade elements as well as the sun protection elements. Constrained parking conditions and tight time frames led to a facade concept in modular construction.
